Before Reading	Statement	After Reading
	1. Having a loving family fulfills our basic human needs.
	2. All members of a family should be treated equally.
	3. It is never all right to cover up the truth.
	4. It is unnatural for people to have an attachment to someone they don't really know well.
	5. The purpose of life is to strive for, and eventually reach, our goals and dreams at any cost.
	6. If someone shares a secret with you, even if it is about something illegal, it is never all right to tell anyone about it.
	7. Running away from your family and home is never acceptable.

Use the questions above and poll yourself and your family. Be sure to keep a straight count of who said yes, no and who said I don't know.

Tally them below

Use the input from the tables above and your discussions with others to answer the questions below. Write your answers in complete sentences.

1. Which statement made by you or someone you spoke to triggered the most thought-provoking, or interesting discussion?
2. Summarize the discussions or debates. Be sure to mention the main arguments made in the time you spent asking questions and give details about anything you found particularly interesting.
3. For any of the statements that you discussed, what were some of the strongest or most memorable points made by people you spoke with?
4. How did you feel when someone disagreed with the way you feel about an issue? Did you feel angry, unhappy, insulted, foolish, interested in another person's opinion, relieved, excited, or something else? Justify your feelings. Do you think your feelings were appropriate?
5. Was anyone's argument strong enough to make you change your mind or want to change any of your initial responses? Why or why not? What, in particular, did the person say that made you feel this way?

Answer the questions and turn them in when you are finished.
